What about the course and/or instruction most enhanced your learning?

Comments
I felt that Professor Aris really cared about his students' understanding, was very considerate of their needs, and made sure to go over things again if need be. I think the pace of the course combined with the homework amounts were pretty manageable and made for a really thorough first logic course. He made very good lecture notes which are easy to read, extremely clarifying of the lecture content, and in my opinion should be made into a course textbook.
Professor is approachable; gives grading feedback; provide resources.
I think overall the professor was very engaging and was a good lecturer. The notes were also very helpful for reinforcing the lectures.
There was lots of predictability, and most of the course concepts tied back together in the end.

What about the course and/or instruction can be improved the next time it is offered?

Comments
I would say maybe a review of some homework questions during class if requested or a solution outline posted to the website (instead of full answers just a sketch). I think everyone did well on the homework but it could be useful to see why or what could be improved — in preparation for the final exam.
In-class quizzes would be nice.
The homework was offset from the lectures, so it started off aligned but by the end we were learning two or so units ahead of the homework that was due. If there's a better way to pace it without rushing the homework, I think that'd be helpful. However, I don't know if that'd be possible.
It would be helpful to have a midterm or some short quizzes; a final worth 80% of the grade is scary when there were no other in-class assessments.
